

CONTENTS

Chapter	Page
I SOUTH AFRICA OF THE PRESENT TIME Its physical and political divisions Relations of the races Progress of the natives Transvaal's relative position	1
II THE EARLY HISTORY OF THE BOER RACE Early settlement of the Cape Troubles of the immigrants with the East India Company and the English The Great Trek Battles with the natives and the English Founding of the republic	25
III THE JOHANNESBURG GOLD FIELDS Discovery of gold Early days of the field and the influx of foreigners The origin of the enmity between, the Boers and the newcomers The Jameson raid and its results.	64
IV THE BOER OF TO-DAY His habits and modes of living His love of family His religion and patriotism	88
V PRESIDENT KRUGER Personal description His long and active career His public services Anecdotes of his life His home life	110
VI INTERVIEW WITH PRESIDENT KRUGER His democracy Hatred of Mr. Rhodes Discussion of the Transvaal's position His opinion of Americans Why he hates the English A message to America	136
VII CECIL JOHN RHODES The ambition of the man Story of his youth His many enterprises Political career Personality Anecdotes and incidents of his life Groote Schuur His home	159

Chapter	Page
VIII THE BOER GOVERNMENT CIVIL AND MILITARY The executive and legislative branches of the Government The Raads in session The state military organization Mobilizing the army Commandant-General P. J. Joubert His services to the republic.	191
IX CAUSES OF PRESENT DISSENSIONS British contempt of the Boers The suzerainty dispute. The question of the franchise Campaign of slander	215
X PREPARATIONS FOR DEFENCE Boers' strong defences Attitude of the races The Afrikander Bond Armed strength of races England's preparation Importance of Delagoa Bay	236
XI AMERICAN INTERESTS IN SOUTH AFRICA American influence Exports and imports Leaders of the American colony American machinery Prominent part Americans have taken in the development of the country	259
XII JOHANNESBURG OF TO-DAY Approach to the city Description of the city Its characteristics Its inhabitants.	283